Subject: Complaint Regarding Coordinated Campaign Ethics Violation by City of Walhalla
Official – Kenny Johns

To Whom It May Concern,

I am submitting this formal complaint to the South Carolina State Ethics Commission concerning what I believe to be a violation of South Carolina's ethics and campaign laws by certain elected officials of the City of Walhalla, South Carolina.

Nature of the Violation

In the days immediately preceding the municipal election, multiple current city officials—some of whom are candidates for re-election—participated in a coordinated photo shoot with members of the Walhalla Police Department in uniform and on city premises. These images were subsequently posted on public social media pages and shared among the candidates' networks, with captions or context that conveyed campaign-related messaging.

This activity appears to violate S.C. Code Ann. § 8-13-1346 and related provisions, which prohibit the use of public resources, personnel, or property to influence the outcome of an election.

Coordinated Political Context

The timing of this photo shoot was not incidental. It occurred only moments after a separate, coordinated political narrative emerged that a certain candidate wanted to "defund the police." That narrative stemmed from a single council member—who was notably excluded from the photo shoot—raising a budgetary discussion point that, in light of city staff layoffs, perhaps the city should consider transitioning to a county-operated police force.

By staging and promoting these official police photo session(s) immediately following those comments, the officials involved effectively used public resources to produce and disseminate a campaign counter-message. This was not neutral civic communication; it was a targeted political act intended to influence voters and discredit another elected official's policy discussion.

Why This is Concerning

Such conduct undermines the public's trust in both elected leadership and law enforcement by blurring the line between official duties and campaign activities. Citizens deserve the assurance that municipal resources and the image of the police department will not be weaponized for partisan advantage or to distort legitimate policy debates.

Requested Action

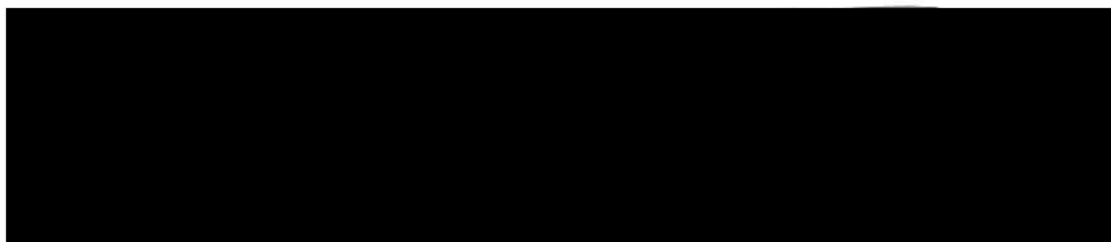

I respectfully request that the Commission:

1. Investigate the officials' conduct and the coordination surrounding the timing and messaging of the photo shoot.
2. Determine whether the use of official police imagery, property, and personnel constituted a violation of South Carolina ethics and campaign statutes.
3. Issue findings and, where appropriate, penalties or directives to prevent such misuse in the future.

I can provide photographic evidence, timestamps of postings, and supporting documentation regarding the sequence of events and public statements. Please advise me on the best method to submit this evidence.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and your work in safeguarding the integrity of South Carolina's public institutions.

Respectfully,

A large black rectangular redaction box covering the signature area.

You can't say "thank you" one minute and missue officers the next.

This is about stewarding and honoring public trust. Backing the blue means protecting jobs, funding equipment and training, and if the city truly cannot afford positions, working with other agencies to help officers find roles where they can continue to serve.

From what I have been told, keep in mind it is second hand knowledge, some council members did not know certain police employees were leaving until after the fact. The administrative clerk reportedly did not resign voluntarily; that decision was made by the chief to free up funds for more officers. The lieutenant being relieved had declined to work night shifts.

If accurate, these are internal staffing decisions, not an effort to defund the department.

South Carolina law (SC Code § 8-13-1346) makes it illegal to use public property, such as on-duty officers, uniforms, and city vehicles, to influence an election. Posting official police photos on campaign pages crosses that line.

Our officers are not campaign props. They are public servants who deserve resources, respect, job security, and protection from political misuse.

Serve them, because these servants deserve it.

To the officers, I'm sorry for how you are being treated. What can the community do to truly serve you, rather than make you a campaign pawn?

I think it became an issue as soon as a group of candidates announced they were running to defund the police and these politicians were saying they would not support that.

I do not have first hand knowledge of any candidate stating they are "defunding the police"; if you have first hand knowledge please provide the source? Even if a candidate did state they wanted to "defund the police" this does not change the fact that this is an ethics violation.

Skylar Azariah Carver didn't that same candidate go to city property (the water plant) and talked with a city employee with fox Carolina a few weeks ago? Wouldn't that be a violation under the same code?

Cliff Powell I did watch this video, and didn't see this being explicitly defunding the police, but will give it a rewatch to be safe.

Cliff Powell I am not a lawyer and this isn't legal advice; but I do not believe so; because this employee was whistleblowing, and seeking the support of a councilman in there fiduciary and elected responsibility to the public.

The words of the various councils post are not bad; it's the photos. That is a no-no.

Skylar Azariah Carver I'm not a lawyer either and I would be curious for the difference between photos and video when it comes to this code - John Aguilar do you think Nathan or Tj could weigh in on this?

Cliff Powell I got to be honest, I didn't hear one time where Grant Keehn said to "defund the police".

He actually said "it's a bummer" to not be able to afford police due to the budgetary issues of the city.

Do you hear it? I genuinely want to hear your thoughts on this matter!! I hope you hear my heart here.

Our Walhalla police department has always been so supportive of me as a city resident, as well as our business on Main Street. We have had several occasions that we had to call and they were right there to help. And before anyone has anything negative to say, I have not had to call them since I've been on City Council. So every call I've had to make was well before I went on Council. I would put our department up against any in the state. Chief Rice and all of our officers are the best around. I support you 100%.!!! Keep up the great work. We need you in Walhalla!! 🙌🙌🙌
